Beginning with the rich, lilting tones of the world's most romantic language—French—its lilting phrases wrap around the grand ballroom like a velvet shawl, where the couple shared their first dance.

As the lyrics shift seamlessly into English, his words resonate against the gilded walls that intertwine with the song's rhythm, painting a narrative of redemption found in her embrace.

The ballroom fades into a blur, the world narrowed to this moment, where every turn and gaze reaffirms that love, in any tongue, is the most luxurious language of all.
